Become a Citizen Leader in Sustainability

Medford prides itself on its small town charm, its unique history and its rural character, located in the midst of the New Jersey Pinelands.

A key component for the future of Pinelands towns like Medford will be fostering, designing and implementing sustainable development principles. As communities get closer to build-out, the communities that incorporate sustainable design principles will be much more appealing for decades to come.

The Pinelands Preservation Alliance and The Citizens Campaign are pleased to offer this free workshop to learn about best practices for creating a sustainable community and how to get involved in your local government. Join us!

January 9, 2013

6:30 to 8:00 pm at the Medford Memorial Community Center

Topics to be covered will include: mixed-use and walkable neighborhoods; energy conservation and renewable energy; water quality and conservation; stormwater management and low-impact development; historic preservation and preservation of natural areas.

Participants will also learn how to advocate for sustainable communities as a citizen journalist, appointed official, or citizen legislator.

The evening's speakers are Jaclyn Rhoads, Director for Conservation Policy at the Pinelands Preservation Alliance and Renee Koubiadis, Assistant State Campaign Director for The Citizens Campaign.

We hope you can join us at this FREE program.
